"Discover" New Opportunities in Washington, D.C.

Floral designers from across the world will “Discover” their destination for ideas to Innovate, Inspire, and Impact their floral design knowledge and business at the AIFD National Symposium "Discover" taking place in Washington D.C., June 30 – July 4, 2018.

"Discover" is a five-day event that provides opportunities for education, networking, food and fun. This year promises to be a new Symposium experience with even more educational opportunities. The schedule includes not only the expected main stage programs and hands-on workshops but also the newly added creative and business sessions for extra educational opportunities. Some sessions will even be offered in Spanish this year. It is going to be a monumental experience!

The high-level Main Stage presentations are crafted by the most talented international and American designers in the industry. Also on the Main Stage this year will be the FTD America’s Cup Finals, where the US representative to the 2019 FTD-Interflora-Fleurop World Cup Design Competition will be chosen.

“Discover is all about connecting and engaging the entire floral industry. Retail florists, mass market floral retailers, wedding and event florists, and farmer florists will all gain valuable experience from attending the 2018 Symposium. This is the first time the AIFD Symposium features dedicated educational opportunities that serve such a diverse cross section of our industry. It is also the first time so many educational opportunities are being offered. All these enhancements will make the 2018 AIFD Symposium the place to be, where all floral professionals come together, share their ideas, network with like minded professionals with different industry backgrounds, be inspired by the some of the most influential designers in the industry and walk away with practical information to help grow their businesses.” exclaimed 2018 Symposium Coordinator Suzie Kostick AIFD, CFD, CF, PFCI.

Full details are available online at http://aifd.org/2018-symposium/. Registration to attend the Symposium is open to all floral designers and early registration is encouraged.

"I am overwhelmed with the generous spirit I received from our volunteer members."

My heart is full...I have met so many amazing people this year. If the "younger" Kim had known that just by volunteering, being involved and stepping out of her comfort zone "this" Kim would step forward again... a volunteer that took a step or maybe I should call it a leap! I feel that I have gained so much more than I have given.

Volunteer by definition is an unpaid helper. Not sure if I like the definition that the dictionary gave to me. In my opinion, an AIFD Volunteer is a person who gives beyond expectations, gives selflessly, gives without hesitation and gives their skills and talents for the good of the Association.

"The mission of AIFD is to advance the art of professional floral design through education, service, and leadership; and to recognize the achievement of excellence in this art form." That is exactly what I have witnessed time and time again! Traveling over 19,000 miles in the last 8 weeks – visiting each region, I am overwhelmed with the generous spirit that I received from our volunteer members.

The first stop – Kent, Ohio where the North Central Chapter welcomed me with open arms! It is always good to go home! Smithers/Oasis generously allowed us into their facility for an incredible tour. I certainly now appreciate the science that goes into the products they develop. We had a fantastic mid-year meeting that Brent Leech AIFD and Laurel Hollopeter AIFD conducted.

Next on the tour – Philadelphia, PA – one of my floral bucket list items – checked off. The North East Chapter invited me to participate in the Philadelphia Flower Show! Ron Mulray AIFD and Suzanne Sampson AIFD chaired this extraordinary AIFD exhibit. Also to be able to see a couple of AIFD teams share their passion with the public was a treat!

Six days later – a trip to Orange County to participate with the South West Chapter at one of the three events they are holding this spring. Suzie Ayala AIFD and her team – Sam Vanwert AIFD and Derrick Vasquez AIFD shared their talents and passion with like-minded floral artists at the Shinoda Design Center.

Thirty hours later on a plane to Raleigh, North Carolina to attend Southern Chapter’s mid-year meeting and see their floral displays at Art in Bloom. Cindy Tole AIFD did a beautiful execution for the Southern Chapter of AIFD display platform. Terry Godfrey AIFD and Michael Whaley AIFD co-chaired this year's Art in Bloom event at the North Carolina Art Museum.

Next stop – St. Louis, Missouri to attend South Central Chapter’s event! Baisch and Skinner Wholesale hosted their 2-day Spring Design Forum on wedding business. Deborah DeLaFlor AIFD, Robin Byrd AIFD, and Mitzi Alexander AIFD shared their talents as well as knowledge with all. Rhonda Lynn-Moeckel AIFD chaired this successful event.

Reflecting on my time spent traveling to every Chapter – I would not change a thing. I would make the effort to see each of you again! I would volunteer for this “job” anytime!

BUT what I really want you to know - especially our new Inductees and CFD members is: IF, and I mean IF, you even have a thought about getting more involved with our Association DO IT! DO IT on a level you are comfortable with – then venture out. If for some reason you don’t know how to reach out – please just call me – I KNOW PEOPLE. I know people that are generous, open, welcoming and ready for you! They are AIFD/CFD Members!

Remember Education, Service and Leadership in order to Engage, Educate and Enlighten.

If there has ever been a year of the plants, it’s 2018. Plants have become hip again, not just for their aesthetic qualities, but also for the bounty of benefits they bring to our homes, health and overall wellness.

What’s behind the current indoor plant movement? Consumer trend watchers attribute a variety of reasons for the increased connection among plants, people and their living spaces.

Urban living and apartment rental is on the rise. People want a connection with nature, so they’re filling their indoor spaces with plants to satisfy their nature fix. Millennials are “plantifying” their spaces with plants in every room, including the bathroom.

With little time or space for pets, and no immediate plans for children, plants offer young professionals something to nurture. Dedicated plant owners proudly fill Instagram and Pinterest with their plant “pet” photos and blog to share their plant “pet” experiences. Retail shops are embracing indoor plants to cater to urbanites’ affinity to these natural wonders of leaf, roots and color.

Overflowing with research studies and findings, the internet is spreading the word that being around plants is healthy, helps to lower blood pressure, reduces stress and anxiety, improves well-being and raises job satisfaction. NASA studies in the 1990’s documented the beneficial qualities of plants as indoor air cleaning machines.

Plant breeders cultivate plant varieties for more colors, shapes and sizes, as well as increased pest resistance and more tolerance of indoor conditions. Succulents and cacti continue to be in big demand for their funky looks and almost no-care requirements. At the other end of the size spectrum, fiddle-leaf fig (Ficus Lyrata), with its tall, slender trunk and broad, curvy leaves is in such demand nurseries can’t grow them fast enough. While green is the go-to color for most interior plants, nature offers a wide spectrum of colors via flowers and leaves. Nothing beats the flower of an orchid for dramatic and rich colors. Bromeliads often provide colorful leaves as well as bright spikes which seem to add an exclamation point to the bromeliad’s presence in the room. Croutons, aglaonema and calathea are only a sample of the many plants offering multi-color foliage to brighten any décor. The Purple Passion plant is a must-have for this year with its Ultra-violet color-of-the-year hues. Many of these plants provide interesting cut foliage to use in bouquets, table arrangements and even body jewelry.

Where does one find the indoor plants du jour? Florida growers produce 75-85% of foliage plants grown in the U.S. and most of them exhibit in the Tropical Plant International Expo (TPIE). TPIE is the largest trade event to focus on indoor plants and foliage. It takes place each January in Fort Lauderdale, FL., with AIFD as serving as an event partner. Access the TPIE Exhibitor Directory to determine tropical plant resources and availability now and plan to attend TPIE, January 16-18, 2019 for full force tropical plant exposure.

The students in the Environmental Horticulture and Floristry Department at City College of San Francisco were inspired and challenged by internationally renowned master designer, educator, author and mentor Hitomi Gilliam AIFD, CFD. Hitomi presented and discussed many ways to prepare for a floral competition or evaluation. She explained how to practice with materials such as paper, yarn, midollino sticks and flat cane. This was an interactive program. Hitomi’s student assistants made designs and the student audience judged these designs using a score sheet. Also, the students were asked to make a design with just a gloriosa lily, two horsetail, binding wire and bamboo skewers. Everyone enjoyed this exercise and creative excitement filled the room.

Steven Brown AIFD, CFD department chair at City College of San Francisco gave the welcoming greetings to the group and was the point person for procurement. Belgian floral designer Tomas De Bruyne attended as a special guest along with his EMC assistants Ania Norwood AIFD, CFD, EMC and Aniko Kovacas AIFD, CFD, EMC. Tomas and Hitomi jointly run the internationally-acclaimed program (EMC) European Master Certificate.

The program was sponsored by the Environmental Horticulture and Floristry Department at City College of San Francisco. Thirty-five people attended the presentation which included CCSF students, industry professionals and CCSF instructors Jenny Tabarracci AIFD, CFD, Holly-Money Collins AIFD, CFD and Steven Brown AIFD, CFD.

Mother’s Day flowers are a celebration of the relationship between mother and child, and I strive to convey that through the floral arrangement itself — with each piece I design being unique to its client. For people who want their mothers to feel like queens, this design allows them to gift a lush arrangement without spending a fortune.

Communicating Wedding and Prom to Millennials!

by: Sheryl Timmerman AIFD, CFD

My Brand. IT’S MY BRAND! It’s time to think of your brand when it comes to Proms and Weddings!

So make sure not to cram to much information into your Brand.

Bring on the Color!
Millennials buy with their emotions and color is massive. Use consistent color and logo so they remember you with ease. Bright fun colors for Prom, softer colors for weddings.

Make sure you have Personality!
Is your store or studio creative, caring, sincere, reliable, ect. Millennials want to feel wanted and that they are important. The ones that come for prom will come for their wedding someday, so showing your style through your designs and a wonderful attitude will give you a one up on the rest.

Communication is Key!
Communicate your brand message should be consistent across everything you do. Your customer need to be able to instantly identify you.

Again use consistent color and your logo always. Whether it is your business cards, website, blog, social media accounts. So when showing amazing pictures or testimonials of your work make sure your logo or color vibes with your brand.

Focus- Focus Please!
What is it you want to be known for? Sit down and really think about what it is you want your customers to recognize you.

What makes your store different and interesting to the customer? Is it the style and flow in your store or the Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, pictures that they are searching through. The artistique style that no one else is trying. Or the picture filled website they scroll through.

It’s Your BRAND! That makes them interested and excited to see and check out your store or studio for their next Prom or Wedding.

Vines, Vines, Vines

It’s wedding season, and the trend to create garden style, wild and relaxed designs is still in full force. The usage of vine material is prevalent in these types of compositions. Almost every bride wants one of three things: succulents, eucalyptus garland, or vines. For the purpose of this newsletter, it would be impossible to cover all types of vines we are starting to see in the marketplace, so, I have selfishly chosen my favorite few.

At the top of that list sits Summer Jasmine, a simple, small flowered warm season vine that carries such an incredibly intoxicating scent that once introduced to it, I had to obtain plants to place in my home landscape. (Yes, it’s that good.) It now lives right outside my bedroom window, which stays open during flowering season!

Jasminum officinale is in the olive family, and a profuse climber. Its delicate leaves and star shaped flowers are a sweet touch to any garden or bohemian style bouquet or arrangement. However, it’s the scent that will create long lasting memories. Did you know that olfactory memory is one of the strongest forms of memory triggers we have as humans? Usage of scent in bridal compositions is a great way to start a long lasting client relationship. It’s one of the main reasons I love this product so much.

Also known as jessamine and white jasmine, this vine is native to the Middle East, and easily adaptable to moderate climates. It is cold sensitive, and I recommend keeping it in a cooler set more for tropicaus rather than the standard 34 degrees Fahrenheit most coolers are set to maintain.

Second on the vine list, is the classic honeysuckle. Also a intensely fragrant vine, this one is more woody in texture, and less forgiving in designs. Or perhaps, I should say, less casual. However, spring and early summer crops are very flexible and a joy to incorporate into designs. The flowers are a bit short lived as a cut crop, however the foliage and woody stem offer a very rustic yet classy feel. When flower drop happens, I have found that individual bouvardia florets can be glued in to give the vine a similar feel in a design.

Honeysuckle comes in several types, with shades varying from white to pink to reds and yellows. The classic white/yellow variety (Lonicera japonica) is available as a dried vine (still malleable) as well as a fresh cut vine. This plant is widespread over North America, Europe, and some of Asia in the wild, however it is all over the world as a landscape plant. Not only is it a great cut vine, it also is a great landscape plant, and has a good deal of ethnobotany qualities as well.
My third pick to highlight this month is clematis. A long standing favorite among gardeners, this product is surprisingly long lasting, some varieties reportedly maintaining freshness for 2 weeks in a vase. Clematis comes in a variety of colors, with an intricate bloom that is easily a conversation point in an arrangement. Additionally, the leaves are deeply toothed, creating an interesting shape. Clematis flexibility is somewhere between the summer jasmine and honeysuckle, as it’s the terminal tips with blooms and tendrils that are harvested for the floral industry.

Clematis is a vigorous grower in poor soils, and does well in the heat. With over 300 species, ranging from large blooming to petite, the possibilities of incorporating this product into event work as well as everyday designs is endless. Just type in clematis vine on any gardener’s web site, and you will be inundated with varieties. Not only are there infinite choices in colorful blooms, but the leaves are also in slightly different format for some varieties. Oh, the choices…. this is why clematis is considered, the queen of vines.

Whether you have used more vine-type materials in your design work of late or not, these three products give some great variety to that trendy, relaxed style we are so often asked to create. From creating an embedded dynamic line, to forcing a garden feel, there is no denying that products like this beg pause from a viewer. And, as artists, ultimately, that is what our goal should be in our work. Happy vining!

NATIONAL SYMPOSIUM

JUNE 30 to JULY 4
TPIE “Connecting Ideas People and Products” was held on January 17-19 at the Ft Lauderdale, FL Convention Center. Florida Nursery, Growers and Landscape Association under the direction of Linda Adams invited AIFD to participate. This year AIFD was asked to create lobby décor, stage presentations and workshops.

The lobby consisted of a plant wall of lush Oasis panels filled with plants and flowers. The European design was a frame work constructed from four individual Syndicate Sales ceramic containers. Birch branches intertwined with calla lilies and recycled packing material made a stunning display. Accent Décor birch orbs, rounded out the Asian display. USA designs were represented using the themed pantone color of the year in all the tints tones and shades of purple. Vanda orchids spilled from the tops of tall Syndicate Sales clear glass vases, creating a table setting. A natural arch fabricated from driftwood was provided by a Landscape show vendor. The show stopper was embellished with bromeliads, succulents, tillandsia, orchids, air plants, anthurium and lush green plants.

The show has grown by leaps and bounds. The “Create Theater” stage provided an area for our programs and workshops. The focus this year was DIY plant décor for the home. Workshop focused on plants gardens. Accents of colored moss, air plants, bamboo and colored aluminum wire features were fun for attendees to create innovative designs. Materials from Fitz Designs, helped create corsages for the executive board of TPIE.

The designers that participated; Eileen Cheng AIFD, CFD, Delia Chen AIFD, Alejandro Figueira CFD (inductee 2018) Pilar Gonzalez CFD (inductee 2018) and Brittany Madon CFD.

Over twenty-five plant vendors provided lush plants and containers to AIFD.

I am pleased that FNGLA will be a Silver Elite Partner this year and I am sure that many of the vendors will provide plants for our Discover Symposium.
I am glad we all survived another Valentine’s day! March came in like a lamb, not looking forward to the lion part, clock’s have been moved forward so spring is finally here!

I am proud to report that many of our members from North Central Chapter are in the mix of the springtime events throughout the Midwest. March is always a frenzy of activities for all of us in the floral industry.

Starting off in Michigan at the Great Lakes Floral Expo, the chapter is well represented with program presenters and educational workshops featuring Doug Bates AIFD, Jackie Burrell AIFD, Sandy Schroek AIFD, Derek Woodruff AIFD, Kevin Ylvisaker AIFD. And all of this would be not possible without the hard work of Cindy Ching AIFD, Alice Waterous AIFD, Jerome Raska AIFD, Bob Friese AIFD, James Lutke and many others. It is truly a great line up of talented and hardworking members.

The following weekend is the Indiana Flower & Patio Show at the Indiana State Fairgrounds. This 10-day show is a chapter fund raiser where we have the opportunity to sell flowers, present stage programs, offer hands-on workshops to an estimated attendance of 50,000 people. Public awareness is key for us and to educate the consumers about flowers and how important they are in our lives. Supporting this event are myself, Brent Leech AIFD, Rae Roberts-Griffith AIFD, Jim Rauch AIFD, Lisa Belisle AIFD, Deb Dawson AIFD, Bob Friese AIFD, Jim Johnson AIFD, Alice Waterous AIFD, Michael Brown AIFD, Leanna Gerhardt-Theye AIFD, Pete Samek AIFD and Pat Scace AIFD. All of this would not be possible without the organization and coordination by Carolyn Kurek AIFD and Michelle Soupley AIFD. New this year will be a floral fashion show based on the 1960’s styles, added to the list of events during the kick-off weekend.

Illinois State Floral Association Spring Conference is next on the list of March events. Another line up of talented designers will represent the chapter in Decatur, IL., including Patience Pickner AIFD along with Ace Berry AIFD, Helen Miller AIFD, Sheryl Timmerman AIFD Katy Selmi AIFD and a special presentation by the dynamic team of Judi Borah AIFD, Rae Roberts-Griffith AIFD, Trisha Locke AIFD, Julia Schmidt AIFD and Jonathon Reiman AIFD. It should be a great weekend organized by Tina Davis AIFD, Adam Havillia AIFD, Deb Strand AIFD and Rhonda Hess AIFD. For those who attend, let’s see if Rick Orr AIFD can win another Lincoln Cup competition.

The first weekend in April is the Wisconsin Upper Michigan Florist Association Spring Conference held at the Wisconsin Dells. North Central will be in good company when designers take the stage and teach hands on workshops. Carolyn Minutello AIFD, Loann Burke AIFD and Lisa Belisle AIFD will be sharing their talents and creative ideas with our friends in the north. As we breakout from the grip of winter and the snow and the ice, we look forward to a busy wedding season. It’s time to sharpen our design knives and remove all that pine tar from a busy holiday season. There are always new trends and styles that demand main stage attention throughout the season. There is a surge of the cascade bridal bouquet coming back to the forefront and requested by many brides today. It’s important to keep up to date with these trends. Stay educated – attend your local state conventions and research trade magazines and bridal publications for information to prepare you for the consultations with wedding clients.

Stay happy and healthy everyone!

South Central Chapter
President’s Letter
Ken Senter AIFD, CFD
The South Central region of AIFD has two named funds, The Richard Seaboldt Fund and The Frankie Shelton Fund that have not reached their limit to become an Endowed Fund. Please go to AIFD Foundation and make a pledge.

I am proud to announce that a new fund had been established in honor of another South Central member. The Jim Johnson AIFD Fund was established March 6th during the 2nd annual Jim Johnson Cup in Houston. Mr Johnson recently retired as head of the Floriculture department and the Benz School of Floral Design at Texas A&M University. Please visit AIFD Foundation.org to make a contribution.

Ranunculus, Dahlias, Anemone, Helleborus, these are all popular flowers this wedding season. The one constant that they all have, is they have higher cost than most flowers. With the growing trend of the Boho style bouquets, a shop owner or manager must understand these costs. As we enter the wedding season, now is an excellent time to review your cost of goods and your markup of products to produce a fair profit. Also refer to your floral magazines to stay on top of the currents trends and popular color. Beige has been a huge influence on flowers the past few seasons. This season we are noticing a trend toward rose varieties like Quicksand, Sahara and Amensia. Now is also a great time to review your wedding contracts, as they pertain to tear down fees, set up and delivery cost, turn a rounds or flips, and the general overall presentation of your contract. Good luck this wedding season!!!

Northwest Chapter
President’s Letter
Erik Witcraft AIFD, CFD
It’s officially spring here in the northwest, and it’s officially wedding season as well! Or least, wedding planning season! Here in the northwest, summer wedding season and early fall is most popular! The weather is fabulous, we have some amazing outdoor wedding venues, and fabulous flowers are in full bloom, and our local seasonal growers are in full force producing the most amazing products for the design world to admire, acquire and desire! Summer dahlias, garden roses, hydrangeas, and so many garden treasures to list. We are truly spoiled by the local flora available (not imported) in our local markets here in the Northwest where I live! Ok, enough about Portland!

Our region has been busy getting inspired for wedding season! We had 2 great event involvements this spring in preparation for this next season of weddings! First, the Flora Fresh event sponsored by Teleflora and the Hands-on program sponsored by AIFD northwest presented by the talented and gracious John Hosek AIFD! It was a great event, full of fabulous inspiration! Second, an amazing weekend “In the Making” at United Floral Inc. in Burnaby BC. This event kicked off with “A Fresh Look at Judging Workshop” with Hitomi Gilliam AIFD. The “Pacific Northwest Design Competition” a qualifier for the 2018 Gateways to the Americas Cup and then the greatest wedding show ever! Our northwest chapter participated by hosting the morning portion of the wedding show; Wedding décor from chapel to reception! Northwest members Sharrai Morgan AIFD, Yukari Mitsui AIFD, and adopted designer Poppy Parsons AIFD lead a vision of beautiful floral inspiration, chaired by Louisa Lam AIFD and Susanne Law AIFD. Additional honoree President Kim Oldis AIFD and other fabulous members of the northwest region helped and participated with an awareness booth promoting AIFD and DISCOVER 2018. We also sold books at both Sacramento and BC events to promote our region and floral design education!

We also hosted an AIFD Awareness booth at the Maple Leaf Cup in Edmonton, Alberta the following weekend. Special thanks to Iris Salmon AIFD, Aniko Kovacs AIFD, and Heather De Kok AIFD for their help and involvement with this great event and promotion of AIFD and our chapter!

Overall, this year has been so great for our Northwest flower family! We are so thankful for everyone that has been able to get involved and be a part of all the fun and awareness we have spread throughout the region! Here’s looking forward to DISCOVER in Washington DC. We can’t wait to see what it brings! Until then, keep booking weddings, getting inspired, and spreading the love of AIFD! I know I will be!

Southwest Chapter Report
President’s Letter
Susan Ayala AIFD, CFD

It’s almost that time of year when we as designers are over whelmed with upcoming weddings. Personally, I love wedding work. I love to make couples dreams come true. To show them how we can take their ideas (or Pinterest ideas) and make them into what they have been dreaming about since they became engaged. I also love to see the diversity in our weddings. It enables us to design for their taste of design.

Speaking of weddings, this past March we had our Wedding programs with many very excited designers from California and Arizona learn some new ideas, techniques, and trends from Derrick Vasquez AIFD, Sam Van Wert AIFD, Brian Vetter AIFD, and myself. I want to give a big Thank You to Shonda Cunningham AIFD, Katie McCormick AIFD, Jan Wilder AIFD, and Debbie Kenny AIFD for all their hard work. A big Thank you to all the growers who donated to our programs. Thank you, Kelly Mace from Smithers Oasis, for always coming through to all floral organization. And Thank you to Shinoda Design Center in Santa Ana CA, and Askern and Sons in Phoenix Az for hosting our region. Words are not enough for all they did.

As we move into the Summer we slow down a bit. This is the time to think of new ideas for our businesses. How can we bring more clients to us and how can we stand out as we should!

Have a great wedding season.

The Southern board has been busy providing programs and events across our region. We hope that you will plan to attend and help out with one of the remaining programs that are listed below. We have a Facebook page just for our Southern Chapter (AIFD Southern Chapter). We invite you to like the page so we can easily keep in touch. Also, if you know of any educational opportunities that are going on in your area please feel free to post them.

We would like to encourage you to get involved. Each of us play a vital role in the success of our Southern Chapter. If you are interested in serving the Southern chapter, we invite you to join a committee. Committees are open to all AIFD and CFDs. If you are interested in serving on the board in the near future or would like more information on what that entails please let us know and we would be happy to get that information to you. If you would like to present a program but have no idea where to start we are here to help.

Any Southern CFD members who are looking for help or would like to mentor to help you along the way to becoming AIFD, let us know so we can try and pair you up with someone. There is also a PFDE mentor Facebook page that's helpful and available (PFDE Candidates for Symposium). There you can post arrangements and receive input on your design.

We also have a hashtag #AIFDSOUTHERN #AIFD. Anytime you post any pictures from a Southern event, use the hashtag(s) so we can all see and share and continue to spread our passion as much as we can.

All regions will meet in Washington DC at our National Symposium "Discover" June 30 - July 4, 2018 with Southern being the Host region.

The AIFD Foundation, working in concert with AIFD Southern Chapter, has established the Hurricane Maria Florist Fund. 100% of your donation will help support the floral industry in the United States Territories effected by the storm. Please make your donation today at aifdfoundation.org. Thanks for all of your support and helping our AIFD family during this difficult time.

We will continue to post details of our events on the AIFD Southern Chapter facebook page and the AIFD Focal Points Newsletter at aifd.org under (About Us). If you are interested in volunteering or have additional questions, please contact me, as this is our chapter and I want everyone to be a part. I look forward to hearing from you!
